INSPECT, CLEAN & REPAIR ♦ RESTORE ~ DON'T REPLACE

Core Competencies

Using unique and proprietary technology, Wahconah has designed a customer-specific process that significantly differs from traditional cleaning systems, allowing to clean and then repair items traditionally considered uncleanable.

The process includes specially designed drying rooms that provide important cost-reducing benefits; including the quick and gentle removal of moisture resulting in thoroughly dried gear that can be stored without fear of shrinkage, mildew, or odors

Strategic Benefits & Solutions

- ✓ The overall process saves replacement costs of purchasing new items and significantly extends the service life of personal protective equipment without degrading the protective properties.
- ✓ While the cleaning of the garments and equipment is essential, having a skilled team able to repair and restore tactical uniforms and gear provides a unique capability.
- ✓ The Tactical Services team is fully grounded in government program management, industrial laundry, repair, and restoration services for apparel, uniforms, and soft goods.
- ✓ With years of tactical repair and restoration experience, the company now offers Tactical Contract Manufacturing services.

Past Performance

Since 2019, Wahconah has been under subcontract to Lockheed Martin Special Operations as the central hub for laundry and repair of uniforms and select equipment in support of their global contract.
